Art Unit: 1712

Prior to Applicant's reply of May 27, they contacted the Examiner to ask if the insertion of the subject matter of claim 4 into claim 1 would make the application allowable. At that time, it was believed that this course of action would indeed render the claims allowable. However, an additional reference was discovered in a subsequent survey of the prior art that at least renders obvious a number of the claims. The Examiner sincerely regrets any inconvenience to the Applicant.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Legler et al., U.S. patent # 4,287,115. Legler discloses fiber-filled thermoset resin composition that may be employed for, among other things the formulation of a grout. The host matrix is one of the materials outlined in column 1, lines 47-49. Relevant to the present discussion, it is stated in column 2, lines 14-22 that the fiber fillers may be used singularly or in combinations of two or more. It is the incorporation of two fiber fillers that Applicant has credited with imparting the workability characteristic that enables a polymer grout to be tintable at a time later than the time of manufacture such as at a point of sale. Insofar as Legler et al. contemplate using more than one fiber filler in their composition, this attribute will have been inherently satisfied. Colored grouts are suggested by the reference given that pigments are recited in column 2, line 32.

Art Unit: 1712

Concerning claims 2 and 3, there is no distinguishing between the claimed composition and that of the prior art hence it is reasonable to assert that the limitations of these claims will be inherently satisfied. "Products of identical chemical composition can not have mutually exclusive properties." A chemical composition and its properties are inseparable. Therefore, if the prior art teaches the identical chemical structure, the properties applicant discloses and/or claims are necessarily present. In re Spada, 911 F.2d 705, 709, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990). See also In re Best, 562 F.2d 1252, 1255, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977). "Where the claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, or are produced by identical or substantially identical processes, a prima facie case of either anticipation or obviousness has been established."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Legler et al., U.S. patent #4,287,115. Automated and manual dispensing apparatus alike are ubiquitous in manufacturing facilities thus claims 9 and 10 are obvious. Color fandecks and dispensers employing color matching software are used not only in retail outlets but also in experimental laboratories where tintable products are developed.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Claims 13-15 are allowable. The subject matter of claims 13-15 is not obvious in the Examiner's estimation because there is no indication that it had been Legler's intent to provide a grout composition that could be tinted at a point of sale or beyond.
